Groves, Houston Selected Winners

A party in the new student center Saturday, April 25 climaxed the second annual Etiquette Week at Trevecca. Karen Salser was emcee, while entertainment, refreshments and excitement were provided as Lowell Houston and Joan Groves were crowned Mr. and Miss Etiquette of Trevecca College.

Etiquette Week was headed by Dick Bailey. Its purpose was to remind students of the thought and courtesy which adds a plus to life.

The kick-off program took place in the cafeteria on Monday. Suggestion sheets for proper etiquette were distributed at the beginning of the week, and each day a couple was chosen as Mr. and Miss Etiquette for their display of courtesy. Daily winners were: Gary Wallace, Dianne Peters, Jim Troupe, Joan Groves, David Post, Marie Smith, Thom McAdory, Lucy Williams, Lowell Houston, and Mary Blume.

With courtesy as the theme, a week of fun and lasting results was provided by the Sophomore class. Courtesy was stressed as a fundamental for the collegian.

Laundro-Mat Installed

The long awaited laundro-mat which was installed in the old Student Center on the ground floor of McKay, opened for business May 1. The new edition is a $8,000 joint venture with a private company headed by Mr. Wallace. The financial part of the venture is being backed by Mr. Wallace. Trevecca's role is to supply the customers.

The laundry room has ten washers and four clothes dryers along with two coin-operated hair dryers. (According to Dr. Wise these were installed so the "fellows" could do their hair while they washed their clothes.)

A tentative schedule of from 6 a.m. until 10 p.m. has been established for the laundro-mat.

Redford To Revise Book

By Earl Frye

The department of Christian Service Training has asked professor M. E. Redford to revise his book, "The Rise of the Nazarene Church." The purpose is to condense the book into six chapters so that it can be used in the six lesson plan for those who do not take the twelve lesson course in the Christian Service Training. The book has been in this course of study for several years, and also in the course of study for ministers.

Professor Redford first wrote about "The Church of the Nazarene in Tennessee," for his thesis required in receiving his B.D. degree from Vanderbilt University in 1934.

In 1935 he received his M.A. degree from Vanderbilt and wrote his required thesis on, "The History of the Nazarene Church in the South."

While doing further graduate work he gathered Nazarene history material from Hutchinson, Kansas; the Publishing House in Kansas City; and throughout the New England states.

The book was first printed in 1948 and revised again in 1951. This is the third revision, and Professor Redford hopes to have this work completed by this summer.

Nazarene College Story Filmed

Premiering June 24 at the General Assembly in Portland, Oregon, will be an 18 minute color film regarding colleges sponsored by the Church of the Nazarene. The film is sponsored by the Church's Department of Education, and the estimated cost is $12,000.

Miss Mary Latham, director of the film, and Mr. Charles Paddock, a professional photographer from Kansas City, were on campus April 27-28 taking pictures of Trevecca College. Shots were taken of an "average day on the campus," of scenes which included classroom activities, student recreation, dormitory shots, outdoor pictures, the cafeteria procession line, study in the library, and a typical day in chapel. Miss Jeanne Thrasher, TNC student body President-elect for 1964-1965, speaks briefly in the film, telling why she chose a Nazarene College.

Similar shots are being taken on the other six Nazarene college campuses. The purpose of the film is to portray the work of the colleges of the Church of the Nazarene and to advance the cause of Christian education. The film will be shown throughout each educational zone.

Besides the regular 18-minute film, each college is given the opportunity to have a special section of its film for advancing the college. Trevecca College will thus have, for use on its zone, a five-minute addition, giving specific information about the college. Miss Thrasher and Ken Bereck are featured in this segment of the film.

Mr. William Anderson and Dr. Wise served as co-ordinators of the film producing at TNC.

All-School Play for '64

Larry Knight, Sharon Adrian, and Billy Jean Cline rehearse a scene from "The Mad Breakfast" as they prepare for "An Eve of Laughs."

"An Eve of Laughs" is in store for everyone who attends the annual ALL SCHOOL PLAY tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m. in McClurkan Auditorium.

Three one-act plays will be presented for a program of variety and enjoyment.

First on the agenda will be "Squaring It with the Boss," the story of a young couple with two hostile aunts and a slave driving boss, all of whom decide to visit the

Cook To Speak In Spring Revival

Rev. J. D. Cook, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, Independence, Kansas, will be the evangelist for our Spring Revival, May 18-22, sponsored by the Student Council.

Mr. Cook is a native of the state of Texas and a graduate of Bethany Nazarene College, Bethany Oklahoma. He also attended the Nazarene Theological Seminary in Kansas City, Missouri, and while there was quite active in the evangelistic work in addition to student activities at the seminary.

For several years Mr. Cook has held evangelist's commission and was ordained after completion of his college work in 1956. He has had experience as both pastor and evangelist. He served as pastor of a church in Oklahoma during his senior year at Bethany Nazarene College and of the Church of the Nazarene, Kirkwood, Missouri.

Rev. Cook will be speaking each day in chapel. There will be no evening services.

ACP Rates Trev-Echoes

TREV-ECHOES received a Second Class rating for the first half of the school year from the Associated Collegiate Press. At this time last year TREV-ECHOES was rated in the Third Class group, a Second Class rating being given for the second half of the year.

Honor ratings are awarded to all papers whose staffs wish to know how their papers compare or rate with others. Standards are set by the best papers in each group. These standards in combination with minimum standards of journalistic excellence determine the honor ratings awarded papers in each group. These honor ratings are All-American, First Class, Second Class, and Third Class. No honors are awarded papers receiving Fourth Class ratings.

"Greenings" at the same time. More confusion results when Mr. and Mrs. Greening have to borrow a nine year old boy to use as their baby.

Next on the program is "Not on the Program." Confusion galore results when a Negro maid and a Negro plumber overhear their mistress and another actor practicing for a play. They misinterpret the rehearsal as a real life scene. The police and the man of the house arrive and matters are complicated more when a real crime occurs. Come and figure it out for yourself.

Third in the sequence is "A Mad Breakfast." A visitor to a boarding house is made to believe that he is in an insane asylum. Through some real scheming, the landlord causes the tenants to act a little "unusual." As a result, everyone is satisfied and the landlord pockets a sum of money without getting caught.

Directing the play will be Professor James Van Hook. He is assisted by student director Ann Jackson.

For an evening of fun and frolic, attend the "Eve Of Laughs", the All-School Play for 1964.

Party Climaxes Twirp Week

A Costume Party in the Student Center tonight at 7:30 climaxes Twirp Week. Each couple will dress as personalities from literature, cartoons, or well-known people of today, with prizes given for the most original masquerades.

The Sophomore class sponsored the fun-filled week, which began with a talent program on Monday night. Tuesday was Round-Up-Time at the Dude Ranch, with couples dressed western style. An exciting horse race preceded a marshmallow roast around an open campfire. The main event Thursday evening was the marriage of Miss Harrietta Snodgrass to Mr. Jereboan Crabtree. The women were required to make "crazy" hats for their dates as tickets for the womanless wedding.

Each night, the women arranged the dates and called for the men at their respective dorms. They carried out the politeness customary for men as they opened doors, carried trays in the cafeteria, seated the men and paid the bill.

Chairman, Jan Forman says of Twirp Week, "The women were given an opportunity to show the men appreciation for their thoughtfulness and to display the courtesies they expect from the men."

Christian Soldiers

There is a sense in which the Christian is a soldier in the army of the Lord. Jesus Christ is our captain leading us in the battle for truth and righteousness. It is therefore necessary to "Put on the whole armor of God that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil, for we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places." Eph. 6:12-12. Versus 14 through 17 of this same chapter give us a description of the armor of God.

There are some things we need to remember as Christian soldiers. We find in II Timothy 2:4 that "No man that warreth entangleth himself with the affairs of this life; that he may please him who hath chosen him to be a soldier." We must keep ourselves free from the entanglements of the world in order to be pleasing to God and effective in our battle.

Then we need to take account of who is on our side and not be overwhelmed by the opposing force. After doing this, the conclusion we come to is "... If God be for us, who can be against us?" Romans 8:31. "Submit yourselves therefore to God. Resist the devil, and he will flee from you." James 4:7.

If we remember these things and are faithful, we may someday say as Paul did, "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith."

Trevecca, We Appreciate You

I would think that sometimes dear 'ole' T.N.C. feels that no one appreciates her. But, we the students of this great institution do appreciate her.

To me, Trevecca is well-rounded in every way. Trevecca is different. Trevecca is an ideal college as far as I am concerned.

No one, boy or girl, can say that Trevecca does not provide activities, sports or fun times. To see the girls and the boys playing softball in this beautiful weather, and to hear the yells and screams from both sides would persuade you to believe that we do have fun here on Trevecca's campus.

After reading about the social life at many of our colleges across the nation, not many of us would disagree that the rules and regulations here at Trevecca are the best for us as young people. Trevecca is producing students with high moral standards and clean lives.

Don't ever think that there's not a lot of knowledge being stored away in Trevecca's classrooms. Every one is gaining intellectually whether he realizes it or not. One of our main objectives for being here at Trevecca is to learn. We appreciate the way Trevecca is helping us to attain a good education.

Last, but not least, is Trevecca's way of providing her students with a spiritual environment which helps us to maintain a healthy christian experience. In our chapel many of us are encouraged and helped. Many decisions are made and many problems solved.

Wherever we are, we will never be ashamed of and will always appreciate Trevecca.

Business Department Needed

A Business Department is needed at Trevecca. Many reasons for business courses can be given, but one of the most important reasons is that no matter what profession a student may enter after graduation, some knowledge of business is required. Also some business courses would benefit students while they are still in college. There are some who would not feel that such practical courses as shorthand and typing (which would be included in the business courses) are necessary to college students. But what of the professor who lectures so rapidly, and who has so much factual information in his lectures that it is impossible for students to cope with the problem of writing down everything in long hand?

And what of the college student who cannot type? He can always pay someone else to do his typing, but what if the typist feels that certain sentences are awkward and tries to change them to make them grammatically correct, only to lose the thought of the paragraph?

The addition of a Business Department would be expensive, but the benefits to the students and to the school would outweigh the expense. Many high school students over the Southeastern Zone are looking for a school with a good Business Department. Why should Trevecca send these Nazarene young people to secular schools because she fails to have a department that can supply their needs?

NEWS IN REVIEW

Washington — James Hoffa, Teamster union boss, has a serious legal problem in his own headquarters. Edward Bennett Williams, counsel for the union, has advised the union not to pay anymore of Hoffa's legal bills. Teamsters officials are divided over this question. Legal fees for Hoffa, according to an inside source, have reached the $500,000 mark.

Cuba — Castro's recent threat to shoot down any reconnaissance planes the U.S. sends over Cuba apparently has the backing of Russia's Premier Khrushchev. In his recent May Day speech Premier Khrushchev said that "the sending of reconnaissance planes over Cuba by the United States is detrimental to world peace" and "will be regarded by the Communists as an act of aggression." Reports from Washington indicate the reconnaissance flights will continue and any missile installations that fire on the planes will be bombed.

Treasury Department — The new Kennedy half-dollars are not much in evidence and here is why. The Treasury estimates that 95% of the 28 million coins issued are being saved (or sold) as souvenirs. One operator, for instance, who was found to have about 2,000 of the new coins said he planned to haul them to Ireland and Berlin for sale.

Rio de Janeiro — Brazil's new government is considering trying nine Red Chinese for spying. Government officials say they have documentary proof that the men are intelligence officers and not "news-men" and "trade delegates" as Peking claims. The nine alleged spies were arrested during the early hours of the revolt.

Pentagon — Defense Secretary McNamara plans to set up a dozen hand-picked intelligence experts as his personal investigation team. The team will report to a new Assistant Secretary of Defense for administration. The teams' mission is to keep a weather eye on security in the armed forces.

San Francisco — Republican family relations may be disrupted when the GOP convention is held in July. To handle the crowd, GOP headquarters is writing convention delegates asking them to leave their wives at home and to double up with other politicians. Convention Committeemen expect an overflow crowd and as one commented: "we don't want any of our delegates to sleep in the park, so every precaution must be taken."

White House — Presidential press Secretary George Rudy took some good natured ribbing from the President last week. After the bushy-haired press chief had payed a long delayed visit to his barber, before-and-after pictures appeared in the Washington papers. President Johnson's comment: "Look here, George, I worked like a dog yesterday and made four speeches. Today I pick up the paper and all I see is pictures of you with your new haircut."

To The Editor:

Since this is the year for the presidential election, many of us who will be voting for the first time have been wondering about several things.

We have wanted to know just what the different party platforms are, the main issues of this election, the probable candidates and what they actually stand for. Not only have we wanted to know this, but also we have questioned whether these candidates are just making speeches to win votes, only later to forget those things of which we are to be "assured." Another important point is what will be the effects of the voting results should "such and such" a candidate win?

To us these questions are important but the answers and our attitudes toward them are vital.

A better understanding of some of these problems and issues was brought about by Faculty-Student seminars on April 23 and 24. The discussions were enlightening and caused me to realize more the importance of this election. I would like to express my appreciation to those who made possible, those who studied for, and to all those who participated in this particular seminar series. I know that partly as a result of these we want to do our share in maintaining the democratic rights of our country.

As Christians we should try to seek that which will not only individually benefit but also that which will be best for our country in general. We should realize how much a privilege it is that we have such a voice in our government. Our vote should count as much as that of anyone else. What we desire counts only if we vote.

You Smiled

On April 2 and 3, our campus was invaded by prospective students of next year's Fall Quarter. They brought with them smiles of anticipation, frowns of doubt, looks of surprise, and expressions of indecision, but all left our campus with the feeling that Trevecca was a "little" different and a "little" special.

These college "history making" activities were not only a success because of what Trevecca had to offer scholastically, musically or socially, but mainly because Trevecca was sold to these students by her students.

Time and time again these probable students were overheard stating, "Never have I felt more accepted and at home," "Everyone makes you feel so welcome," or as one enthusiastic girl from Georgia said, "I think almost every Trevecca student I passed today either smiled or spoke."

This is what added that "little extra" to the well planned banquet, gave the special touch to the program and tours, and flavored every conversation.

The results, more Freshmen for next year at Trevecca.

The reason: all because "you," Trevecca student, smiled or spoke to that high school senior.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor:

As I picked up the paper today and noticed on the front page some of the activities that have been going on recently at one of our best known secular colleges in Nashville, I am grateful for the privilege of attending school at a Christian college, and am thankful for the opportunity of associating day by day with some of the finest young people in the world.

So many times we are prone to criticize and look for those things which we think should be improved, but at that time I should like to remind myself that there are, perhaps, only a few colleges in the world where prayer is offered before each class, where the teachers enjoy an experience of holiness, and where the young people go out in Christian work in an effort to win others to Christ. The daily Chapel service offers both inspiration and guidance.

The scholastic program is organized for a well rounded education. Trevecca is truly a school with education plus. As I take all of these important aspects of college into consideration, I am glad that I can be a part of a school like Trevecca.

C W A REPORT

By
Sara Casdorff

Editor's Note:

(The staff of Trev-Echoes, wishes to thank Mary Jane Golden, a former editor of Trev-Echoes, for making this letter available for publication.)

Christian workers, do you sometimes wonder if the results of your labors for Christ are lasting? Here, in her own words, is the story of a lady who was saved and sanctified in the county jail over five years ago. She was a wonderful influence on the services while she was there, and, as you read her story, you can see that she is still a wonderful influence for God.

"I was saved in jail. Some people don't believe Jesus, our Saviour is every where, but I love Him most because He loved me first.

"I believe my mother's death led me to Christ. I didn't become an alcoholic till my mother died. After she left me I went crazy with drinking wine. In bars I lost everything she worked for all her life. Finally I started to steal, and so landed in jail.

"Oh, what a lost feeling! No one knows how lonesome and depressed and completely lost one feels closed in by bars and a brick wall. Through the Nazarene college girls' prayers (and I only let them pray for me so they would pick on someone else the next time they visited us), I was led to Christ. He came to me there in my cell, and I could feel His loving arms around me, and He told me of His great love and forgiveness of what I had done. From that time on I have worked for Him. I led a strip-teaser, an attempted murderer, and a dope fiend to Christ, our Saviour.

"My first burden was in jail for a dope addict. I cried for three days and nights, and prayed so hard with her that the radio in her cell gave out with the Lord's Prayer instead of jazz. The radio announcer couldn't understand it, but I could — it was the Lord talking to us.

"The strip-teaser was shameless before she was saved, but when she left she was buttoned up to the top. She now has a beautiful child.

"After I was free, I traveled to Colorado and started an AA in Estes Park, but the priest there wouldn't let me continue. He had no faith in me — thought I would drink again, so I tried to start a prayer group, but it failed, too.

"I married Bill, and we moved to Boulder, where I joined the Church of the Nazarene, but I wasn't completely contented. I didn't feel I was doing enough for Christ, so I started a Sunday School in our home for the Salvation Army.

"Recently, my best girl friend, who was an alcoholic, has finally given her all for Christ. I wrote her for three years about our loving Saviour. I pray I will be able to lead more alcoholics to Him so that they will have that peace of mind that I have.

"I have a Salvation Army Bible school now in my home in Denver, and I am also head of the Junior Church on Sundays. The Lord has answered my prayers. I wanted a child, and now I have over a hundred! How He multiplies His gifts!

"In the last revival Bill gave his life to Christ! Now he picks up most of the children and loves to attend church. His new life has completely changed him. Praise God! God has done so much for me. I feel I just can't do enough for Him. Praise His name."

Roses & Thorns Complete Tour

By Ray Kohser

On April 17th, the thirty roses and three thorns left TNC campus at 11:10—just in time for everyone to arrive in chapel five minutes late. Empty pails would have come in handy for those tears—right, Carol, Esther H., Janie, Janet, and Natalie?

There was a strange odor among the girls. Mark, what brand of aftershave do you use? Following two hours of silence there was a great uproar near the center of the bus and "you know who" came back to give No. 10 speech (she has them numbered now), "Girls, be quiet, save your voices." This got us off to a bang.

Supper rolled around and letters—already—were given to Karen and Jan M. This was a big night for Sharon C.—she saw Mr. and Mrs. Callihan. I believe that this was the second best service on the tour.

Carol must have gained some weight from the delicious supper because when she climbed in bed that night—slats fell out! And before retiring, Janet and Esther F. were privileged to see all the aunts and uncles of the widow they stayed with.

Up Saturday morning and ready to go at 6:30. When we arrived on the campus of Fisher University the rain was pouring like Morton's salt. Guess who was standing under a black umbrella. After singing in chapel, we toured the buildings—by this time the sun had decided to shine. At 10:15, we were on our own until 11:30 when we were supposed to eat in the cafeteria. During this hour we found that Mr. Fisher took Miss Mac to his office—counseling, I wonder. I realize this is what most of you are interested in finding out. Mrs. Wise, please watch for some results.

Sharon A., do you always hang your coat on parking meters in Covington? Then I noticed Natalie was carrying her choir folder to town. Her excuse: "I like to keep my music close to me."

When time for the service arrived, we were worn out from the early morning rising but God came and poured out His blessings again.

Sunday morning, we had a tiresome ride of three miles to Newport where we met "Lillard's" sister. After eating, we were ready for those "Sunday afternoon naps." We didn't have any alarm clocks on the bus so Sara decided to let out a blood-curdling wail in order to awaken us. No sooner awakened, when there was a "Standing marathon" in the aisle—none other than Sharon H. and Sara.

In the evening service, we were privileged to have the parents of two of the girls: Carol and Nancy.

On Monday Mr. and Mrs. Pickens were again present in the service and Natalie was overjoyed because her mother was there also. By now, you've guessed it, we were in W. Va.

Tuesday was a long trip to Weirton. But this was one of those unusual nights—everything was different. We went to the individual homes for supper; Annette, while playing the piano had a cat run between her legs and last of all Cathy stole the diabetic's salad. Ray's parents and two grandmothers came over from Pittsburgh to hear the choir.

Wednesday found us on our way to Washington by way of PENNSYLVANIA, Maryland and Virginia. Pop Andy got so excited about being on the PA. Turnpike that he upset his Coke in, eh, Howard Johnson's.

Upon arriving in Washington, we went to Arlington Cemetery, viewed the grave of John F. Kennedy and saw last year's bus driver, Brigham. Wayne Dollar happened to be in the service this night. He SAYS he came to see the FELLOWS(?)

Margie picked up an object in a souvenir shop and asked a profound question, "Is this the magic wand?" "No, honey, It's a cigarette holder."

The service in Richmond was the greatest because one of the choir members was saved and the choir was really broken up.

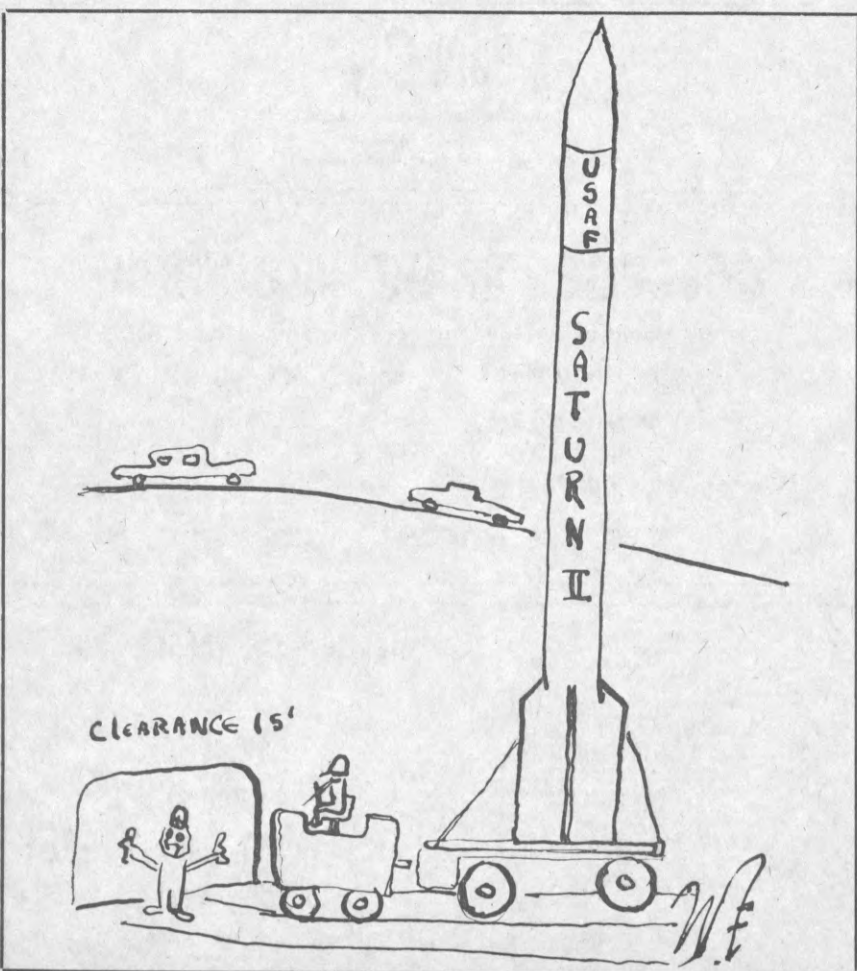

Spence was given his gift on Saturday because Pop Andy was leaving after the Sunday afternoon service—the reason, to see that K.C. knew how to film TNC properly. Janet's parents and Mary Jo's parents were in our midst this night. This was the night we were to sing at Sally's church—we did too.

The next to the last morning—off we went to Greensboro, High, and Charlotte.

That infallible Lester forgot his overnight case (shaving kit) for the fourth time. There were several anxious girls Sunday evening—they must have had parents or "special friends" awaiting them; is that not correct Judy, Joyce, and, of course, Billy Jean?

Monday—I wondered as I arose, where are we headed now—but Carol was quick to remind me it was NASHVILLE—impossible!!! But back to reality. Pam and Sara had to be one hour late and the two old "thorns" and a new one (Dick Bailey) were one and a half hours late.

We stopped in Cherokee and Gatlinburg for a short time—then Home!

DAILY ENCOUNTER

Today I knelt before God.

And as I knelt

All earthly cares and fancies

Seemed to disappear.

There, alone in my room,

I touched heaven.

My heart and soul

Cried out to my Saviour;

And He answered.

He visited this frail being

Of mine

In a way that never

Ceases to amaze and thrill me,

And He whispered assurance

"All is well, I am with thee."

Refreshed and renewed

I again took up my cross

In blessed surrender.

Senior Reflections

By Dovie Conner

In reviewing the years spent at Trevecca, Roger Costa considers the religious element of specific value. He values very highly the opportunity for prayer preceding classes and the service of the Christian professors. Chapel services have also been inspirational in the establishment of Christian experience. The various phases of Christian work have also provided opportunity for spiritual growth.

He appreciates the attitudes of cooperation and sportsmanship in the area of athletics. It provides participation with various young people in an atmosphere of clean fellowship.

He feels that he has received a well-rounded education, plus training in preparation for his life's work. He feels that he has become more aware of other's needs and appreciates the interest of the faculty in him.

Mary Moore tells us that her four-year stay at Trevecca has been the most wonderful time of her life. It provides opportunities of meeting Christian young people who are friends in the truest sense of the word. She feels that she has made a wise choice in the selection of Trevecca instead of a state institution. She feels that our professors are more dedicated to the task of education and have the interest of the students at heart.

C.W.A., a vital function of the school, has offered her insight in the realization of the needs of people outside her Nazarene background. This activity has aided her in improving her witnessing. Then, the tour of the Girls' Chorus provided her with the opportunity of pre-sending Trevecca to prospective college students who are contemplating a college education.

Some of the memories that stand out in her mind are: Freshman Recognition Week—wearing rollers to class and other similar ridiculous stunts; Senior House—an unforgettable experience of sharing that is lacking in a large dormitory; Materials and Methods class—will not be easily forgotten, remembering very vividly staying up all night the night before her unit was to be presented; Student teaching—invaluable in making the application of the classroom-learned theory.

Trevecca has been a vital part in the life of Lillian Buckner, both educationally and spiritually. She feels that one can receive an "education" at various institutions, but an education with true Christian concepts is vitally important to the individual as he prepares for his life's work.

She feels that Trevecca has enhanced her development of maturity and has been of great value in stabilizing her in her Christian experience, and she is certain that it will play a role in every phase of her life.

Lillian states that in her opinion her education is equal to that of the students of other institutions with the added benefits of a Christian atmosphere. The educational material is presented; it is up to the students to apply themselves. Also, the spiritual atmosphere gives opportunity to all; however, each person must take advantage of it.

OUTSTANDING PLAYERS

Trev-Echoes' Outstanding Players for this issue are Charles Woody and Lester Byington.

For this issue of Trev-Echoes, Charles Woody and Lester Byington have been selected as "Outstanding Players."

Together, Woody and Byington hold down the right side of the Alpha infield, and both are currently among the league leaders in batting. In his second year at T.N.C., Woody is always to be found at his short-stop position, where he is known for sure handling of the ball, and very often for coming up with a sparkling play. Leading off the batting order for the Alphas, Woody is the man who is counted on to start the big inning. He has done just this by hitting at a hot .428 pace.

Along with his interest in Softball, Woody also takes an active part in Football and Basketball. Last year, Woody was good enough to be placed on the All-Star team for his all-around performance in Softball, and looks to be a sure bet for the same honors this year.

The other half of the Alpha right side, Lester Byington, is also in his second year at T.N.C. Playing at the third base position, Lester holds captain duties. Byington is presently the leading hitter in the league, hitting at a torrid pace of .476. Lester is considered to be a top-notch third baseman, but his biggest value to the team is his hitting ability. Hitting third in the batting order, he has already banged out several triples and one double, leading his team in runs batted in.

Lester is considered by his teammates to be a leader, not only in Softball, but in Football and Basketball as well. He was chosen as captain of all three major sports, made All-Star in Football and is this year a likely candidate for Softball.

DELTA 10 BETA 2

Jim Hendershot's fine pitching backed by eight base hits led the front-running Deltas to a 10-2 win over the Betas. Jim allowed only three hits in pitching to his 4th win in five starts. Barney Baggott and Wayne Downing each collected two hits to supply the power punch for the Deltas. Paul Johnson was the losing pitcher, his third loss in four starts.

BETA 4 ALPHA 0

Paul Johnson's brilliant three hit pitching and Ronnie Hall's third inning four-bagger sparked the Betas to a 4-0 shutout over the Alphas. Significant is the fact that this was the only shutout pitched thus far this season. Fred Cunningham got on in the 3rd on an error, and after a stolen base and a sacrifice fly, Hall smashed a liner over the right fielder's head for a home run. The blow was all that was needed to give Johnson his second win. Dan Mills was the loser for the Alphas, giving up 4 runs on 6 hits and 4 errors.

DELTA 3 ALPHA 2

The first place Deltas squeaked out a close one in late innings over the Alphas, 3-2. Jim Hendershot was the winning pitcher, throwing a four hitter and Dan Mills received the loss, also throwing a four hitter. The Deltas led 3-0 until the seventh and final inning when Troy Miley started things off with a single and moved to second on a wild pitch. Lester Byington then struck out for the 2nd out, but Ray Byrd doubled Miley home. Byrd scored on a wild pitch and an error, and Hendershot promptly walked the next two batters. After loading the bases with an error, the Deltas got out of trouble as Ammons was called out on strikes.

DELTA 7 BETA 4

The mighty Deltas brought their season record to 7-1 on a 7 to 4 win over the Betas last Thursday. The Deltas got 7 runs on 7 hits and committed 3 errors, while the Betas banged 9 hits, getting only four runs and making four errors. Hendershot hurled to his sixth winning performance while Paul Johnson received the loss. Swinging the Big bat for the Deltas was Carl Breeden with two two-base hits. The Deltas are now in first place, with no one really threatening their lead.

Next Saturday, May 16, is the big event. The All-Sports banquet, with the theme of "Good Sportsmanship," is under the co-chairmanship of Ann Hawkins and Larry Knight. The banquet has long been looked forward to, and according to what plans I've seen, everything should be great. The evening is scheduled to begin at 7:00. After an interesting speaker, awards and citations for the year will be given out. Letter winners will be announced, and most valuable players will receive their awards. A special acknowledgement will go for the "General Flunkie Award." This once-a-year affair should be one of the best banquets of the year. Get your tickets now. Don't pass up a wonderful opportunity.

In case you haven't noticed, we have another tennis net. The net was purchased two weeks ago by Dr. Greathouse. It has already received much use and is a valuable help in our sports program.

Not many elections end up in a tie; but our's did!! The election day saw 80 T.A.A. members cast ballots for the President of 1964-65. Strange as it is, both candidates, Jim Hendershot and Larry Knight received 40 votes each. Larry Knight was elected president on a run-off ballot held Tuesday.
