FROSTY ERECTED BY ENERGETIC STUDENTS

And then the snow came! School was dismissed for an extra day of vacation and everyone had a swell time building snowmen on New Year's day. Well, almost everyone. Some of the more unfortunate members of our group were stranded someplace between here and there, but this group was in the minority.

Being the creators of these odd shaped snow creatures was exciting most of time, but there were dull moments (like the time someone tossed a snowball and it landed on the back of an already cold neck) when some wished for the thrilling tales of other times as told in the World Lit. classes. Or some wanted to get back to the seven o'clock algebra class and were so disappointed to learn that there would be no meeting of the mathematical minds that day.

If one would have walked across campus on New Year's day and looked for those students who were lonesome for the old classroom, he may have had some difficulty recognizing them, for they really had their true feelings well hidden. But a good private eye could have recognized that all the laughter and squeals of delight were only masquerades to hide the disappointment of missing their favorite classes one more day after being home all that long time between the fall and winter quarters.

If you were not out there in the snow pretending to be having fun, where were you? and what are you? Some kind of nut?

TMF Report

Greetings from Willie T.! Remember him? He is the advance press agent for the group of missionaries who will accompany Dr. George Coulter to our campus for the annual Missionary Conference, February 19-21.

Willie T. represents the dedicated Nazarene college student who is willing to: pray, give, yield, consecrate all. You'll see his picture in the next issue of Trev-Echoes.

Those of us who remember the challenge presented, as well as the spiritual blessings received during last year's Conference, are looking forward to another profitable series of meetings.

Today Willie would like to introduce to you two of the missionaries who will be his guests during the Conference.

Rev. Hubert W. Helling, Nazarene teacher and missionary to Japan, is now on his second furlough and is engaged in deputation work among the home churches. First assigned to Japan by the Department of Foreign Missions in August, 1952, Rev. Helling will describe Japan and its people and tell of the Nazarene work there, showing pictures when possible.

The holder of two earned degrees from Northwest Nazarene College, Nampa, Idaho, Rev. Helling pastored Nazarene churches in Idaho and Oregon ten years before going to the mission field. Rev. and Mrs. Helling have two sons and two daughters, ranging in age from 8 to 16 years. They are residing in Nampa while on furlough.

Rev. Earl L. Morgan is also on his second furlough since appointment in August, 1952 to Lebanon and the Middle East. His second term has been largely spent in Beirut, Lebanon, where he has been a teacher and principal of the Nazarene Bible School. He has also engaged in evangelistic work among the churches. Mrs. Morgan has taught piano and has assisted at the school.

A native of Pennsylvania, Rev. Morgan is a graduate of Olivet Nazarene College, Missouri Valley College, and the Nazarene Theological Seminary. He has also taken graduate work at the University of Kansas City. He pastored the Nazarene church in Marshall, Missouri, prior to his appointment abroad.

Rev. Morgan will describe Lebanon and the Middle East as well as the Nazarene work in Italy, where he served for five years. He will show color slides whenever possible.

Chapel Program

The Benson Lectures with Prof. Leon Fisher, January 20-24, will be the first of the special chapel events for winter quarter.

A new venture this quarter will be Youth Week Emphasis, January 27-31. Students will be carrying on each phase of the services. Dr. Greathouse will be the first of the series of speakers with guest speakers from the Senior Class for the remainder of the week. Senior speakers will be Leslie Bearden, Al Truesdale, Jerry McCant, and Paul Hetrick.

Dr. Richard Taylor, well-known speaker and author will be visiting the campus February 10-12 as a representative of the Nazarene Seminary. He will be answering questions and granting interviews to all students interested in attending the seminary. Dr. Taylor is Professor of Theology at the seminary and editor of our newest publication at Kansas City, The Nazarene Preacher. As a writer he has earned a reputation for clear thinking and concise expression. Among his most famous works are: A Right Conception of Sin and The Disciplined Life.

Foreign missionaries will be our special chapel speakers as the Missionary Conference visits our campus February 19-21.

SC Sponsors Fontaine Film

"The Tony Fontaine Story" will be shown in the McClurkin Auditorium on January 18 at 7:30 p.m. The film, presented through the Student Council, is the story of a former recording, television, radio and stage star and his wife, who gave up a lucrative career to dedicate their lives and talents for full time Christian service.

Tony's wife, the former Kerry Vaughn, was a professional actress and night club entertainer. Both the Fontaines portray themselves in the film.

"The Tony Fontaine Story" combines music with what some consider the most thrilling testimonies of this century.

Though I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, and have not charity, I am become as sounding brass, or a tinkling symbol. And though I have the gift of prophecy, and understand all mysteries, and all knowledge; and though I have all faith, so that I could remove mountains, and have not charity, I am nothing. And though I bestow all my goods to feed the poor, and though I give my body to be burned, and have not charity, it profiteth me nothing.

Charity never faileth: but whether there be prophecies, they shall fail; not itself, is not puffed up, doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh no evil; rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth; beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things.

Charity never faileth: but whether there be prophecies, they shall fail; whether there be tongues, they shall cease; whether there be knowledge, it shall vanish away. For we know in part, and we prophesy in part. But when that which is perfect is come, then that which is in part shall be done away.

When I was a child, I spake as a child, I understood as a child, I thought as a child; but when I became a man, I put away childish things, for now we see through a glass, darkly; but then face to face; now I know in part; but then shall I know even as also I am known.

And now abideth faith, hope, charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity.

1 Corinthians 13

STEWARDSHIP

Stewardship! One word with an enormous meaning. What does one think of when he hears a message on stewardship? Tithes are usually what comes first to most people's minds. But stewardship is more than just money. We are to honor God with our tithes and offerings, but more than that, we are to honor Him with our time, our talents, our whole life.

All too typical today is the man who does not have enough time for everything. He rushes from morning until dusk and his poor minister is almost afraid to ask him to help with the new Sunday School class or some other part of the church work for he has heard that man repeat "I just don't have time to do all I would like to do." But what about those fishing trips and golf dates and club meetings?

God wants our TIME as well as our money. No one should rush ahead without relaxation, but many times there are needless hours wasted on trivials while the vital matters are neglected.

God can help with the busy schedule. He wants our time to be dedicated to Him along with our other possessions.

The Beauty of Knowledge

Whatever aims a college student may have in mind, the beauty of knowledge is one of the greatest gifts a college can offer the alert mind. What pleasure is there comparable to that of a mathematician who can force the stars to obey his calculation? Or what confidence greater than that of a well-learned man?

We can be lifted from a day of gloom with just one new idea during the course of the day, just one new question answered or one to answer. Knowledge comes to us as the break of dawn, bringing with it more beauty with every bit gained, while the "satisfied" life could be compared to the sunset when the light shines no more.

No matter what the circumstances of life may be, we may find the beauty of knowledge today. This day holds much in store for us. Let us do our part.

FEUDALISM?

Are you a student who would term our student government as feudalism or "I am a vassel, your lordship"?

No student should feel this way for most certainly no such condition exists on Trevecca campus. True, not every student fills an elected office but neither does everyone have the time and desire to do so. But each student is free to participate in the projects of his class as his time and skill permits. Opportunities are abundant for leadership as various activities require the talents of every class member.

Our organizations and clubs are intended to arouse unity of purpose, labor, and results in a specialized field, as well as for the betterment of our school. As each member participates in the club of his choice, he is advancing competition for points as well as for results.

The student's objections to the administrative, as well as to the student government, most often stems from his own lack of participation. As a student moves closer to the lawmaking body of the school, his influence is being felt as much as that of his fellow worker.

If each Trevecca student would accept the crown awaiting him and become a ruler within his own capabilities, feudalism could never thrive on Trevecca campus. Who would be King?

NEWS IN REVIEW

WASHINGTON...

Senator Barry Goldwater seems to have climbed aboard his own bandwagon.

At his Phoenix home two days after his 55th birthday, the Arizona senator announced he would be a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination. "I have decided to do this," he said, "because of the principles in which I believe... also, because I have not heard from any announced Republican candidate a declaration of conscience or of political position that could possibly offer to the American people a clear choice in the next presidential election."

At the same time, Goldwater announced that he would also seek re-election to the Senate. "I find no incompatibility in the two candidacies," he said.

CANAL ZONE...

Since the Panama Canal opened in 1914 frictions have been evident, and the main roots of the trouble today are almost the same as they were in earlier years.

One is nationalism which wants it made clear that the Canal Zone, although under United States control by treaty, is still a part of Panama and deserves the flag symbol. The other is a greater sharing in the canal operation and in its profits.

Although the U.S. built the canal and protects it, the Panamanians have come more and more to think of themselves as partners in the operation. Panama now gets about $1.9 billion from revenues of about $4 billion, and this is almost half but their chief complaint is that they get little in the way of job equality and in having a say about the canal. MOSCOW...

Fidel Castro arrived in Moscow on a surprise visit to Premier Khrushchev with more Soviet economic aid for Cuba presumably his aim.

The Cuban leader may have difficulty getting an increase in help, for Khrushchev is spending hundreds of millions of dollars to buy wheat from Canada, Australia and the United States, and he has embarked on a massive expansion of the Soviet Chemical industry.

Khrushchev gave Castro the same red carpet welcome he gave the Cuban last April when Castro visited the Soviet Union for five weeks. The Soviet Premier was at the airport along with other Soviet officials and the diplomatic corps—minus U.S. Embassy representatives. There was a 21-gun salute.

Cupid's Capers

Heart trouble and romantic fever are the latest epidemics on Trevecca campus, heralding the approach of the annual Valentine Banquet. Many a man's fancy is fondly turning to thought of whom to take and how he will be able to accord the flowers and tuxedo rental.

Cupid will be working overtime, piercing many an unsuspecting young man with a thousand little pricks of his magical arrows as his favorite young lady descends the stairs on the evening of February the eighth. She is beautifully arrayed in her favorite formal with a new coiffure to top off the evening. Her heart will pound in return as she sees the lovely corsage he has for her and how handsome he is when dressed in his very best.

The young couple will make their departure for the scene of the banquet. The evening will be spent gayly receiving and returning compliments on apparel, food, and in enjoying the excellent program prepared by the sophomore class, and saying cheese when the photographer snaps his camera.

Many fond memories originate at this traditional banquet. Cupid will go into semi-retirement to repair his over-used bow and manufacture new arrows for his future conquests. His victories can be witnessed by the many permanently wounded hearts.

Dear Editor,

I believe there are many positive comments to be made about the pleasantness of the workers in our school cafeteria and T Room. Their cheerful attitudes and helpfulness are demonstrative of the desire to please each student.

We might show our consideration with a "Thank you" but probably a more effective means would be a conscious consideration of the work these people do. If a paper torn to shreds were deposited in a waste can or a smile is rendered rather than a grumble as the food is served, the workers in food service would know they are appreciated.

An Appreciative Student

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

A source of spiritual refreshment is available to all Trevecca students immediately after chapel every day in the room directly behind the balcony chapel section.

Noonday prayer meeting has been a source of encouragement and inspiration to students for many years.

It takes only a few minutes out of a busy, hectic day in the life of a college student but a few minutes so very profitably spent. Our souls are uplifted as we share our Christian experience with others, share our requests for prayer, and commune with God. Many times the effort made will result in the solving of a particular problem, renewed strength and vigor in our Christian lives and a close fellowship with other believers.

How privileged we are to attend a school that encourages and approves a student noonday prayer meeting.

Sara Casdorff

Dear Editor:

Many opinions have been expressed, and all of them agree, "We need more congregational songs in chapel." Just one more would help. Some faculty members have expressed their opinion about this matter, and they too would like to sing more as a group.

There seems to be a fixed schedule to sing one congregational song, put the book up, and that is it.

While the first song is being sung, it tends to direct minds from studies, problems, people, and bring those minds to chapel. The spirit of chapel seems to begin to settle down in the hearts and minds of the students during the opening song. This act of participation tends to encourage many to enter in the spirit of the service. Some open their hearts and respond more freely to the voice of God.

A second congregational song would not only break the routine of chapel service, but would be an added blessing to many.

Anne Bohler

Dear Editor,

Thank you for printing the letter to the editor from June Riddle which appeared in the last issue of the paper. I am one of the working students who is having difficulty getting the needed classes because of my work schedule, and I am glad to see that someone else has noticed the problem.

I love and appreciate Trevecca and the opportunities the school provides us. I would like to be able to take the afternoon classes but it would mean giving up my job to do so, and to give up my job would mean to leave school altogether, so I would be defeating myself.

Maybe something can be done about the schedule. The members of the administration do all they can to help us get through school, and if they can, I feel sure they will help work out better class schedules.

A Hopeful Junior

CWA REPORT

By Sara Casdorff

Each of us have a clean slate for the year 1964. The future has become the present, and we anxiously and impatiently look ahead to the opportunities and responsibilities this new year may hold for us. This will be the year that many of us will see some of our dearest aims and desires come to fruition.

There are elements that we need to bring into the year 1964 from 1963 and there are elements that we would discard from our thinking. As Grace Noel Crowell has so aptly said:

"What shall I take into the coming year?"

And what shall I leave behind?"

I asked my heart, And quick came the answer: "Lay all doubt and fear

And anxious care aside before you start.

Take but life's stark necessities along:

The word of God that you may be kept fit,

The staff of faith, the lamp of hope, a song

Of high and dauntless courage: fill your fit

With laughter, and take happiness to wear,

"Twill cloak you on the bleakest, coldest day;

And take an apple and a loaf to share

With one who may be hungry on the way.

Fill your canteen from a wayside well,

You may grow thirsty," said my cautious heart.

And hark, across the word a mid-night bell

Peals out a summons,—it is time to start.

Stuco Report

by Jeanne Thrasher

Of special interest this month is January 18. "The Tony Fontaine Story" will be shown in the McClurken Auditorium. Each student should tell his friends for this is a thrilling film. Trevecca is privileged to be able to show it and we want students to help us have a large attendance. The Student Council is proud to present this, the story of a young popular entertainer and his wife who find Christ. Their lives are changed, and even though they face adversities, they are faithful to their newfound Christian experience. Plan NOW to be present and bring several with you.

Congratulations are in order for the Sophomore Class who is on top of the class point race. Although this provides temporary security for them, each student should support his class and work especially hard this quarter.

In the club race, Kappa Sigma Phi tops the list. Congratulations to them, also, and to their officers for their initiative. Here again is the chance for each student to support the special interest club of his choice. Put yourself and your ideas to work in a club—this quarter!

The revised editions of the class and club point systems have been given to the presidents. Notice the changes and additions.

Enrollment

The Dean of Admissions office reports an enrollment of 437 at the beginning of the winter quarter.

The twenty two new students are scattered among the 152 Freshmen, 127 Sophomores, 80 Juniors, 58 Seniors, 15 Special, 2 Junior Theological, and 3 Post Graduate students.

From Chatty's Nutshell

Hi! I'm "Chatty," but I guess you'd find that out before long anyway. I'm going to be an author! I'm writing a column now but before long I'll probably be editor and then those girls will be working for me. But in the meantime . . . Write! Write! Write!

Before you get the wrong impression let me clear up a little matter: I'm not writing this column alone. I have some help from my cousins Herman and Hershel. See, they're twins and you can't let one do something without letting the other help so—I have two assistants.

Another item to be cleared up before this column progresses any farther, I'm not a people but a squirrel. You may think that's funny.—A squirrel going to college, but we squirrels decided we needed some learning so some of us moved over from our Centennial Park home to the various colleges in Nashville. My cousin John lives at Vanderbilt but I think he spends most of his time at Peabody so maybe we'll get a letter from him later in the quarter. He promised to write if he could find a typewriter.

He never was very good in penmanship. Herman, Hershel and I like Vanderbilt and all the other schools, but we came here because we thought there was a good crop of nuts over this way.

Next time the paper comes out I'll try to have my picture ready to put up at the top just like Erbin did before his pen ran out of ink. I would have had it this time but I couldn't find my brush and you know no squirrel wants to have his picture made with an unbrushed tail.

By the way, Herman (he lives down Smith way) told me he overheard Gail tell some of the girls she hoped Twirp week was postponed until spring quarter because maybe by then she would have enough nerve to ask a boy out.

The other night when I was making my rounds with Nick I heard a loud "CRASH" from McKay and for a while I thought one of the "Clouds" was coming right through the second floor window. And speaking of McKay, Bev, how are the snake sandwiches, You should get together with Jim B. and maybe he'll give you part of his hot dog.

Herman (and he lives in the tree on the right between Tidwell and Hardy) told me he sees Dean working with his radio a lot, but he wants to know what else he does with it. How about it Dean, can you help Herman out? He's awful curious.

I just thought of something. I'll bet half of you all that are reading my column just won't believe that I am really a squirrel. Well, next issue, just look at my picture and you'll see. They always say seeing is believing and you'll have to believe it then. (Now don't ask me who they "they" are for I have no idea but I've heard it all my life and have never stopped to question it yet).

Flash from Herman . . . He reports that you know who (or whos) still wake him up earlier than they are supposed to. What's the matter Jim did you lose your family contact or is Herman all wet?

How many of you are going to the Heart Throb (Valentine) banquet, Joyce says Cupid has his arrows all ready. She seems to think he will use them too. I'm so short it seems I get lost in crowds so me and my date are just going to drop by later in the evening.

Well, I guess that's about enough chatter for a while. If you think I'm a top notch writer, give Mrs. Wise a note to leave in that editor's box and tell her just how good I am. She won't believe you but maybe she'll let me write again and even put my picture in the paper. I hope I don't get fired after the first issue 'cause I'd sure hate to go back to being just an ordinary squirrel again after I've tasted of this success as a writer.

Well boys, it's so long for now but you all know I don't have time to gather my own food since I'm so busy with the paper and all. My typewriter is just getting warmed up, so keep the nuts coming and I'll have a lu-lu for you next time.

FASHIONS

When selecting new articles to add to your wardrobe, there are a few basic rules to follow for choosing almost every type of apparel. First, before ever starting to shop, determine what colors look best on you. Everyone has some colors that go better with their complexion than do others. Just because a girl you know looks "darling" in a certain color doesn't mean the same shade for you.

Also consider how practical the item is. Does it suit the garments already in your closet? If not, chances are it will soon be pushed back for something that goes well with your other clothes. This is true especially when selecting shoes.

And do the clothes fit you? Too often girls who buy dresses that are too small hope to lose a few pounds which they don't, and the dress, if worn at all, always looks ill fitting.

Plan before buying clothes. Items bought on the spur of the moment are seldom satisfactory.

Trev-Echoes Senior Personality

During the winter quarter the staff of Trev-Echoes will be featuring a senior who has been outstanding during his four years at Trevecca.

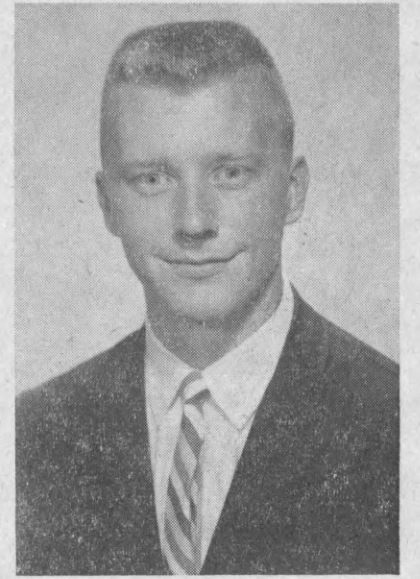

The senior chosen for this issue is Jerry Appleby, president of the Associated Students.

A religion major and mathematics minor from East St. Louis, Illinois, Jerry's future plans are to go to seminary and then to a pastorate.

While at Trevecca he has been an active member of his class, serving as representative to the Student Council during his freshman and sophomore years and as Student Council Secretary his junior year.

Some of his other activities at Trevecca include membership in the A Cappella Choir, the Brass Ensemble, the Math Club, and the Music Club. He has also been president of the Ramblers Club, captain of the Delta Softball Team, and an active member of the C.W.A.

Jerry is married to Polly Mc-

Jerry Appleby

Bryant, a former Trevecca student, and resides at 68 Hart Street.

Science Club Meanderings

If you had been up and about in Tidwell at six a.m. on a cold Saturday morning last quarter, you would have seen Roger and me flitting about the halls on tiptoe, speaking in hushed tones, and cautiously tapping on doors. Our object: to arouse enough Science Club members so that our club would receive credit for an expedition to Cumberland Caverns. After being the targets for a great deal of unkind language and various projectiles, we collected four bleary-eyed innocents and forthwith got the safari on the road.

We drove through McMinville and over many furlongs of dirt road to reach the cave's ticket office. Upon payment of the stipulated fee, we were introduced to our guide who led us through the dripping jungle to the cave entrance.

In the first room of the cave, we were shown implements used during the Civil War to extract nitrates from the cave soil. These nitrates were used to make explosives, first for the armies of the Confederate States of America, later for the Yankees. Stucki and I made some flash photographs here, temporarily blinding the other members of the party.

We were then led over a torturous path which wound beside an underground stream to the next room of the cave. This room was six hundred feet long and thirty to sixty feet high. It held many massive and beautiful formations, some of them oddities found only in this cave. Our intrepid sponsor endeavored to lift a broken stalactite and straightened up clutching his back and making agonized noises.

In the third and last room, we had pointed out to us more formations, the most unusual of which were stalactites with prongs which stuck out horizontally or spiraled around others like vines on a tree. The climax of the tour was a fifteen minute presentation of the story of the creation in light and sound.

Our guide had conversed so learnedly about various formations, geologic epochs, heliotites, gypsum and calcite formations, and other deep subjects that there had been some disagreement among ourselves as to what level of graduate school he had reached. We were greatly chagrined when he told us that he was only a high school sophomore.

After eating in McMinville (where we were requested to eat in the back room) Prof. Hemmerly headed the car back toward T.N.C. and civilization once more became a reality.

OUTSTANDING PLAYERS

JAN FORMAN

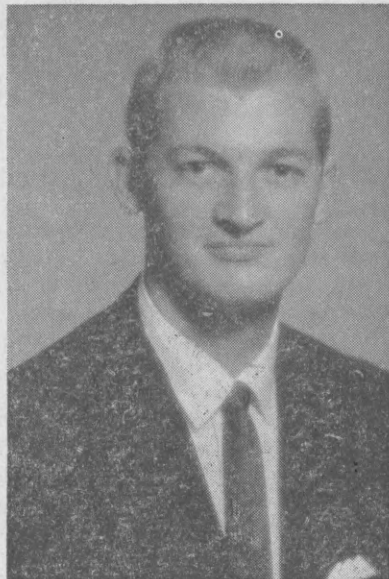

Jan Forman, Delta captain, stands 6'0" and weighs 145 pounds. Normally a forward, Jan sometimes moves out to guard when needed at that position.

Forman has scored a total of 84 points to place him fifth among the scoring leaders. His high games were both against the Alphas, in which he scored 28 points on two different occasions.

A first-team All-Star last year, Jan then averaged 15.7 points a game. In five games so far this year, he has bettered that performance with a 16.5 average.

Jan's teammates feel he is an "excellent captain" and team leader, and a sure bet for the All-Star team again this year.

Forman, however, does not seem concerned with statistics. He just plays to win. His goal is "to rebuild the Deltas into the championship team they used to be."

LLOYD MANNING

Lloyd Manning, captain of the Betas, standing 6'2" and weighing 175 pounds, along with Jim Knight, forms one of the best outside combinations in the league.

For four games, Lloyd has poured in a total of 114 points. This total places him on top of the scoring leaders with an average of 28.5 points per game. His high for the season was a game against the Alphas in which he scored 38 points.

Although Lloyd leads the Beta's fast break and gets many of his points on driving lay-ups, he is considered the best outside shooter in the league.

Manning's value to his team as captain was evidenced in last Friday night's game against the Deltas. With two of his first team players out of action, Lloyd fired his team up to a 70-55 victory over the Deltas.

BETA 72 DELTA 50

Lloyd Manning and Jim Knight led the Betas to a 72-50 victory with 23 and 21 pts. respectively. It was the Beta's third win in as many games as they remain unbeaten. High for the Delta team was Hendershot with 17. The Betas ability to snatch rebounds has been a main factor throughout the season.

BETA 70 DELTA 55

The powerful Betas sneaked past a determined Delta squad 70-55 in one of the closest games of the season. Lloyd Manning finished the game with 28 pts. and a season average of 28.5. Ken Walker who filled in for Jim Knight, dumped 14. Jim Bracket, Delta forward, netted 23 pts. to lead the Deltas. The game was nick and tuck most of the way, but foul trouble for the Deltas put the game on ice.

Commencement of the New Year has brought about a new look on the basketball court. Color and much enthusiasm have been added to the game. The latest addition is the purchase of jerseys for each team. Now instead of the multi-colored shirts on the floor, each team has its own colors: White and black (Alpha), red and white (Beta), blue and gold (Delta).

Probably the best addition to the game has been enthusiasm. Approximately 125-150 people have attended each Friday night game that has been played. Fans yelled, jumped, and drank cokes while watching the inspired teams play ball.

Basketball play thus far has measured pretty close to pre-season expectations. The Betas have won their first five, being pushed only once or twice. The defending champs are averaging 68 pts per game while limiting opponents to 47 scored. The second place Deltas are averaging 67 pts. per game, but have allowed 70 to their opponents. The winless Alphas have counted 56 per game and permitted 79 to the other teams.

Only four freshmen have managed to break into starting line-ups this year. Two Deltas, Jim Hendershot and Jim Brackett, are among the leading scorers. Hendershot is hitting out a 17.5 clip per game, while Brackett is averaging 17.3. Larry Knight, Beta forward, is scoring 8.2 points per game, and is a standout on rebounding. David Bays starts at forward for the Alphas.

Phyllis Houston drove around everyone to score 20 pts. in the opener of the women's league. She and the Alpha defense have been all the defending champs have needed in turning back opponents handily.

Date set for the All-Sports Banquet is May 16. Bill Wade, pro football quarterback, has been contacted for a speaking engagement.

It is rumored that the Betas are planning to offer Dr. Wise a basketball contract.

Girls In Action

Last fall for the first time the girls of Trevecca made history for themselves with their games of power-puff football. It is almost certain that next year football will not be strictly for the men students.

With the beginning of the basketball season the girls are at it again. Each Friday night just before the boys play, the girls have their own troubles with the illusive ball. The enthusiasm these girls have shown for athletics can easily compare with that of the boys. The participation in these games has been good and the girls have been out to win.

Some of the girls want the "outstanding players of the issue" position to be open for the girls as well as the boys. The girls want a place in Trevecca's athletic program and they seem determined to work until they get it.
