I T W A S

To represent creditably in word and picture the activities of the year afforded the 1945 DARDA Staff a great task. To create an annual which is worthy of a progressive Trevecca furnished a difficult assignment to the group of young people who were selected for that purpose.

Throughout the work all the members of the staff were united in the desire that this year's book be a publication that could be used for the glory of God. With that aim in mind, the staff worked steadily in spite of the many unavoidable setbacks.

The DARDA Staff would like to sincerely thank the student body, the faculty, friends, and particularly Mr. John T. Benson, Jr., for invaluable assistance in publishing the 1945 DARDA.

D E D I C A T I O N

The fire tragedy at Trevecca on December 7, 1944, took the lives of two of our best beloved classmates. The lingering effect of their buoyancy and sincerity of Christian purpose will continue to motivate us to merit also at our end the reward of the "good and faithful servant." Our hearts are bereaved, but our faith is rested in the hope of the final resurrection. In appreciation for their devoted lives we dedicate our 1945 DARDA to the memory of Bob and Clarence.

I cannot say, and I will not say
That they are dead.—They are just away!
With a cheery smile, and a wave of the hand,
They have wandered into an unknown land.

And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be, since they linger there.
And you—Oh you, who the wildest yearn
For the old-time steps and the glad return,—

Think of them faring on, as dear
In the love of There as the love of Here;
Think of them still as the same, I say:
They are not dead—they are just away!

Alma Mater

There's a something about Trevecca
That grips the heart-strings so
That ever and always they love her
Whose fortune it is to go
To drink at her fount of learning
And, sitting by that stream,
Learn well the path of love and chart
Their way thereon. They seem
To love her best who linger long
Before the unseen shrine
That consecrates the ev'ry breath
Of student life. Here hearts entwine—
Grow into one and fasten hard
A friendship knot. Here love is sweet
And 'neath magnolias in the spring
The lovers full the challenge meet
To carry high the banner of Their Christ. Here dreams begin
And, crystallized in class and dorm,
Become the sacred tasks of men.
And on the lawn—beside the pool—
Before the altar—in the pew
Are choices made and lessons learned
To shape tomorrow's world. God knew
That those who'd serve Him best must have Firm faith and love and wisdom knit
In one, and so to us He called
To work and study, here to sit
With wiser ones and learn of them.
We thank Thee, Lord, 'twas ours to come
And live at T. N. C.,
For here we've learned to dream and do,
And here found strength and faith to be

He is the man whose genius has led our college through its critical transition period into the radiant present. We admire him for what he has accomplished, we respect him for the duty he is now performing, and we honor him for the task we know he will complete.

SALUTATIONS from Dr. Mackey

Trevecca College is planning a program which provides collateral reading from the Bible in every class, not only in the theological college but in the college of arts and sciences, in the high school, and in the grade school. Our plan is to emphasize the Bible courses by making their contents applicable in every avenue of life's activities. To do this it must be taught in connection with economics, education, psychology, English, science, and literature.

Some of the leading authorities have said that we do not learn a subject so well in school that in later years our knowledge of that subject can be applied when we meet with the problems of actual life. The reason for this is that unless the applications are made at the time the course is studied, it is forgotten. And, therefore, in later years there would not be enough retained to apply. For example, if a person does not learn to apply his knowledge of arithmetic at the time that he studies arithmetic, he will never apply it because the application of the principle is what keeps him from forgetting it. Consequently, to make the principles of the Bible applicable in the lives of our students in the years to come, it is necessary for us to do it while in school.

The Bible has a close relationship to all worthwhile knowledge. The translation of the English Bible has had much to do with the crystallization of the English language. A major part of the worthwhile English literature has had its background in the Bible. Long before Mendel formulated the law of heredity, the Bible said, "the sins of the fathers shall be visited unto the third and fourth generations." The Constitution of the United States and the American democracy is based upon the Bible. The repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment is an indication that we are now wandering too far from the Bible. Trevecca College will teach in its history courses that "Righteousness exalteth a nation and sin is a reproach to any people," and "Blessed is that nation whose God is the Lord." Other colleges may teach without consideration of the Bible, but to the extent that they do, they are not teaching Truth.

A professor in a leading university announced to his students in economics that spiritual values were not to be considered in his class. The time will come when university professors will become aware of the fact that spiritual values should be considered more important than all other values put together. The Bible says, "The fear of God is the beginning of wisdom." Again I maintain that a course taught in a Christian college—a Nazarene college—in light of Biblical and theological truths, is far superior to those taught even in the most outstanding universities where God and the Bible are not made prominent.

THIS CAMPUS of OURS ★

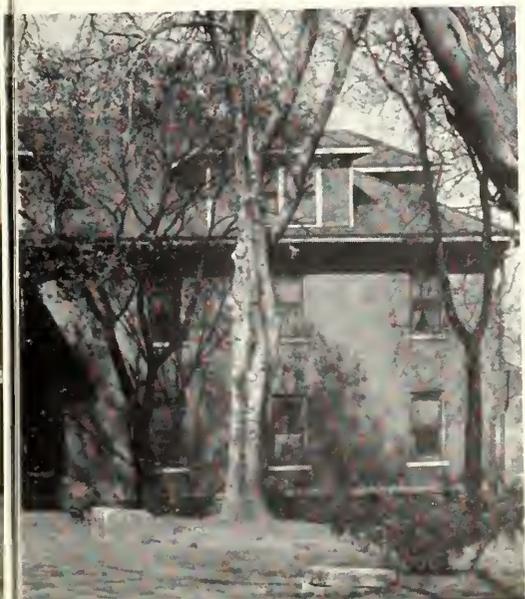

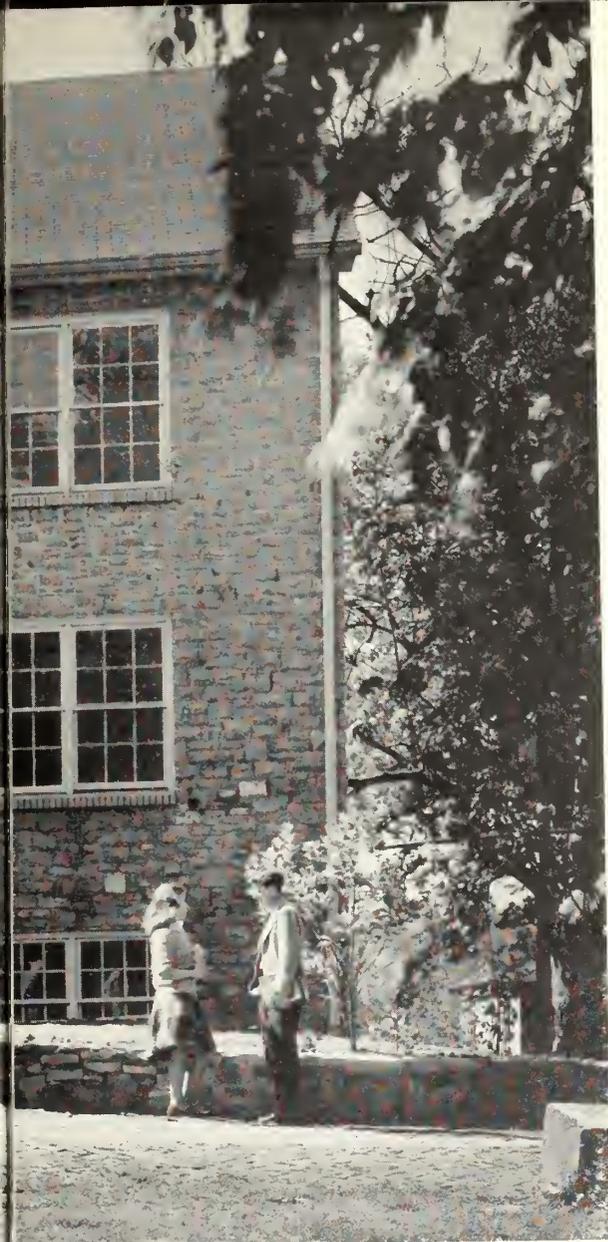

Trevecca's campus of 1945 offers quite a contrast to that of 1935, the first year at the present location. Throughout these years there have been constant improvements in the way of more land and buildings, more beautiful appearance, and great comfort and convenience.

The president's home, with its well-kept lawn and shade trees, as well as the two-story Gresham apartment house, are attractive additions to our campus. Both of these homes are of rock veneer construction. The print show now is housed in a snug masonry building instead of the former old wooden shed. Incidentally, even the cows have a new home with a concrete floor.

The two dormitories, the only two remaining buildings that were here in 1935, have been reworked and redecorated internally until they are quite adequate, except in size. The cafeteria, which is beneath McKay Hall, has been brick-veneered, renovated inside, and equipped with furnace and Venetian blinds. And we are all quite proud of our college building, which contains the library and auditorium as well as college classrooms.

Where once stood the antiquated colonial house serving as administration building, now stands a new stone building which has been erected on the ashes of its predecessor. This is a modern, well-equipped structure which is practically fireproof. There are private offices for each administrator, separate and complete high school facilities, and studios for our Music Department.

In the near future we believe we shall see a new men's dormitory, an activities building (a concrete tennis court is now in the making), and a College Hill Church building. This campus of ours is steadily growing and improving.

It takes diligent study motivated by an earnest purpose to reach the scholastic goal.

The painstaking experimentation of the young science enthusiast often paves the road to fruitful research.

Perplexing questions may be brought to interested and sympathetic advisors.

Preparing for 'PEACE'

Peace in its deepest and fullest meaning is a state of heart and mind that gives one rest in his thoughts of others and others rest in their thoughts of him. True, it applies in a superficial sense to a condition of non-resort to armed combat or to a time of respite from use of organized force to gain desired ends. Yet here are seen only the external, the transitory accidentals, that may belie hatred, distrust, and evil intent which only watch from under cover for the occasion to go abroad and kill. Too often "a severe war lurks under the show of peace," and "peace itself is war in masquerade." Our world can look ahead with little hope if those who chart its course seek for such peace.

Still, rare and elusive as peace may be here, its pursuit is not as some maintain a futile, foolish undertaking. The visionary who cries "'peace, peace,' when there is no peace" merits commendation above the recluse who lends no efforts toward bringing rest from turbulence and strife to mankind. On those who understand the fundamental meaning and basis of peace there devolve the burden and privilege of working unceasingly to multiply the number of hearts and minds that are set to give the world a rest of peace. We may not expect complete success from our own attempts alone in this direction, but partial results are infinitely better than the empty fruits of inactivity.

Our colleges receive young people who are on the threshold of full responsibility as citizens of the state and of the world. To these institutions we must look for the actual inauguration of tomorrow's leaders into their various places of leadership. The importance of this task for us is augmented today by the prospect of "victory" in World War II. It is the concern of every fair-minded, right-thinking person that that victory be followed by a "durable peace." But if peace in its true, full meaning is in prospect it is because our training agencies have led and are now leading our youth into rest of heart and mind with one another.

At Trevecca Nazarene College we assert fearlessly the high importance of the preparation we give for this true peace. By pointing students to the ways of right living and useful service and away from fears and prejudices born of ignorance, we provide the intellectual basis necessary to understanding and working agreeably with others. In our classrooms, in our laboratories, on our educational tours, at our private study we broaden and deepen our knowledge of man and his natural surroundings. We learn of man's needs and determine the best and fairest means of supplying them—of supplying each man's needs without detriment to others. And yet, in this respect alone, we cannot claim to be greatly different from other colleges. Many institutions equal and some perhaps surpass us in the training of the minds of youth toward peace. But it has been seen that peace has a broader, deeper base than mind only. It depends finally upon the will, upon the attitudes, upon the inner spirit, which prompt and give direction to the thinking and planning of the mind. Within this deep-seated but determinant realm Trevecca gives to its students their best opportunity to enjoy personal peace and to promote world peace. Every exercise and activity in connection with our classwork is blended into the over-all motif of gaining knowledge and acquiring skills, impelled by "clean" hearts and "right" spirits. Hence, with other colleges similar to ours, we are doing the world's best work in post-war planning.

Our chapel auditorium provides an attractive place for our daily worship together. The physical surroundings complement the spiritual tone of the service which helps us to go out with renewed courage and stimulated vision.

C H A P E L - E V E R Y D A Y

In the matter of chapel attendance there are remote and indirect values to be derived as well as those of more immediate value. Any student who for any reason misses the chapel services has lost a large and an invaluable part of school life, even though he may not be aware of his loss. It would be the universal testimony of all students of our holiness schools who have attended chapel with regularity that these services have proved invaluable to them.

It is a part of our educational program to acquaint our students with the broader aspects of life. Often chapel speakers present matters of general public and national interest; such as community and war chest drives and the Red Cross Fund. These presentations have educational as well as cultural value to the young people. Then in the case of our denominational schools, and holiness schools in particular, the program of the general church is from time to time presented. This in itself furnishes an inestimable privilege. Furthermore, the student group has the opportunity to hear some of the very finest speakers that our denomination affords, and that is to say that some of the very finest preachers in America are heard. It is gratifying to know that the leading preachers of our church would grace the pulpits of any denomination, as well as national platforms.

In considering the immediate values of chapel attendance it is noted that the chapel services are to the school what family worship is to the family. That home is happiest and can offer more good to each member when time is taken for family worship. The chapel service is a vital part of the family life of the school, and just as no member of the family should absent himself from the family worship, so no member of the school should get the consent of his mind to absent himself from chapel. Every individual member of the school needs the grace and blessing that comes from participation in the family worship of his college. There is a very true sense in which the heart and soul of the school is portrayed through the chapel services as in no other way. Just as the prayers and exhortations of fathers and mothers at family worship reveal the character of the home, so do the messages and prayers and songs at chapel portray the spirit and heart and soul of the school. To know what is the true spirit of the school one must be acquainted with its chapel services.

The college can be thought of as a living, breathing organism that is kept alive and dynamic through the conscious devotion and loyalty of the members of the school. A college should be strong, its influence should be far-reaching, it should have a good name, it should be useful. If all of these elements are to characterize the school it will be because the members of the school will love and appreciate the institution. At no place do we develop this devotion and loyalty as we do in the activities of the chapel hour. We come together, we sing, we pray, and we worship together. So does our loyalty and appreciation for the school grow. It is our aim to urge students to take seriously the privilege and the obligation to attend the chapel services.

unto Pilate, and craved the body of Jesus.
 44 And Pilate marvelled if he were already dead; and calling unto him the centurion, he asked him whether he had been any while dead.
 45 And when he knew that he was dead, he gave the body unto Joseph.
 46 And he bought fine linen, and took him down, and wrapped him in the linen, and laid him in a sepulchre which was hewn out of a rock, and rolled a stone unto the door of the sepulchre, and Mary Magdalene and Mary the mother of Joseph beheld where he was laid.
CHAPTER 16
Of the resurrection and ascension of Christ.
 1 AND when the sabbath was past, Mary Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James, and Salome, had bought sweet spices, that they might come and anoint him.
 2 And very early in the morning the first day of the week, they came unto the sepulchre at the rising of the sun.
 3 And they said among themselves, Who shall roll away the stone from the door of the sepulchre?
 4 And when they looked, they saw that the stone was rolled away: for it was very great.
 5 And entering into the sepulchre, they saw a young man sitting on the right side, clothed in a long white garment; and they were affrighted.
 6 And he saith unto them, Be not afraid: ye seek Jesus them, which are crucified: he is risen; as he said: behold the place where he lay.
 7 But go your way, tell his disciples and Peter that he is risen: as he said. Behold, I am with you in the end of the world, until I come again.
 8 And they went out quickly, lowing, and feared greatly, fearing they had seen a ghost.
 9 Now when Jesus was risen early the first day of the week, he appeared first to Mary Magdalene, out of whom he had cast seven devils.
 10 And she went and told them that had been with her in the sepulchre, which was wept.
 11 And they, when they heard that he was alive, and had been seen of her, believed not.
 12 After that he appeared unto two of them, as they walked, and went into the country.
 13 And they went and told unto the residue; neither believed they them.
 14 Afterward he appeared unto the eleven as they sat at meat, and upbraided them with their unbelief and hardness of heart, because they believed not when he had seen him after he was risen.
 15 And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature.
 16 He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned.
 17 And these signs shall follow them that believe: In my name shall they cast out devils; they shall speak with new tongues; they shall take up serpents; and if they drink any deadly thing, it shall not hurt them; they shall lay hands on the sick, and they shall recover.
 18 So then after the Lord had spoken unto them, he received up into heaven, and sat on the right hand of God.
 19 And they went forth, preaching every where, the Lord confirming the word with signs following.
 20 And they went out quickly, lowing, and feared greatly, fearing they had seen a ghost.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO SAINT LUKE

2216 Writer, Luke, the 2217 Analysis
 2218 Key Verse

CHAPTER 1

in order to 2219

"GO YE INTO ALL THE WORLD"

Our Lord's command was to "go into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." Trevecca students have obeyed this divine imperative in a large measure. Our Christian worker graduates have gone throughout the nation and to many foreign lands preaching the gospel. Those who are yet in training in Trevecca go to various public institutions, missions, and churches in Nashville and adjacent areas carrying the gospel in song, testimony, sermon, and exhortation.

The founders and promoters of Trevecca Nazarene College believed in a God-called and thoroughly-trained ministry. The purpose of Christ's coming was to save the lost. There are three essentials in effective soul winning, whether it be personal or group evangelism.

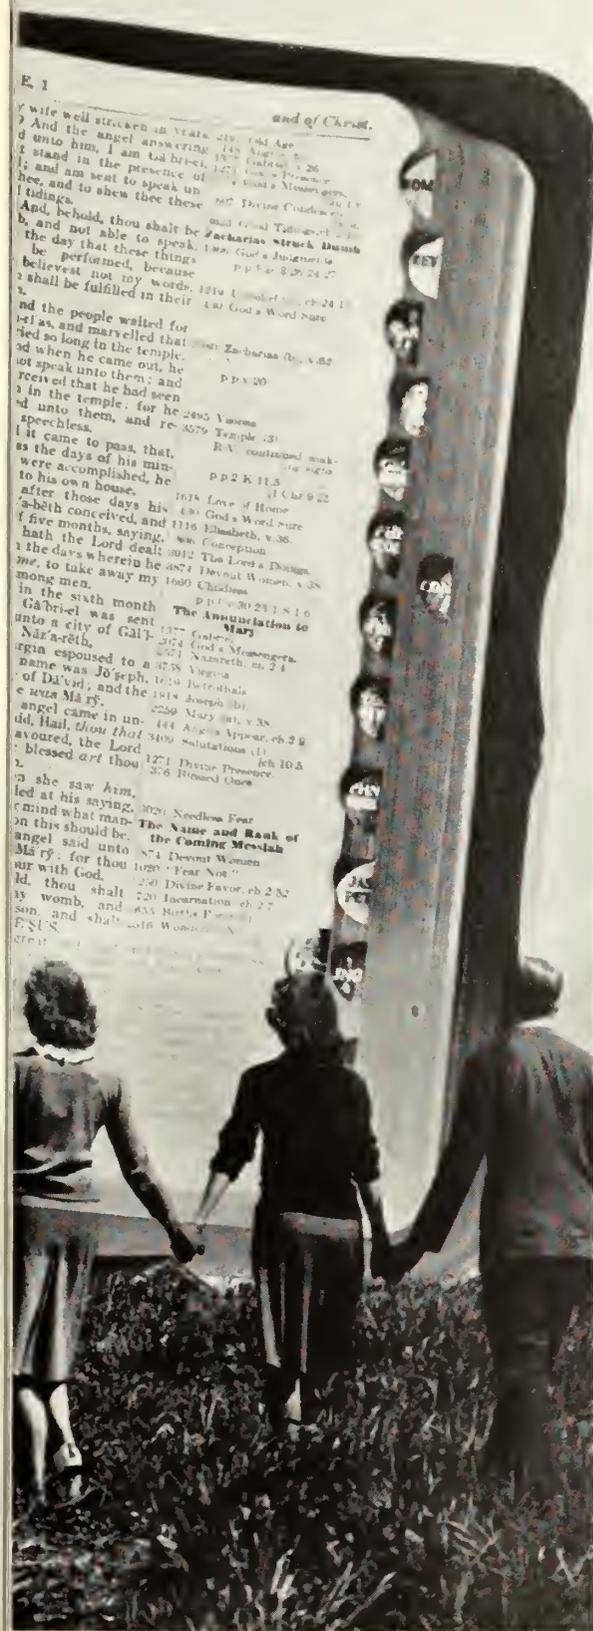

First, there must be a real heart experience of the regenerating and sanctifying power of the gospel. Along with such an experience there must be a vision of the spiritual needs of humanity and a soul passion for the welfare of the lost.

Secondly, there must be adequate training for this greatest of all human activities. This includes comprehensive courses in general education and thorough training in the specific field of theological and ministerial courses obtained in a distinctive Christian and spiritual atmosphere with Bible holiness emphasized.

Thirdly, there must be actual participation in Christian work in life's situations. No worker for God is fully prepared without it. Truly, experience is a great teacher. Experienced professors endeavor to give the students practical instructions. This procedure serves to reduce mistakes and blunders to the minimum. Nevertheless, each student who continues to pursue the Christian workers' course of study engages in a number of Christian services; such as, the varied activities of the local churches, visitation in the community and institutions, singing and speaking in public services, participation in street meetings and religious programs, as well as assistant pastors in some of the larger churches and pastors of smaller churches.

In all of these activities there must be kept uppermost in the minds of those who teach and those who are taught the consciousness of God's spiritual presence, the dire need of lost humanity, the power of God to redeem the individual, and the necessity of keeping in the love of God all who trustingly and obediently follow the Savior.

General and district leaders of our N. Y. P. S. inspire the young people with the challenge "Giving Christ to the Nations."

One of Trevecca's outstanding trios.

The Trevecca Mixed Chorus presents each year the cantata, "Olivet to Calvary."

MUSIC FOR "GOD'S GLORY"

"And He hath put a new song in my mouth, even praise unto our God." Psalm 40:3a. Music has been called the "language of the soul." No one dares deny its power and influence. To be familiar with good music is to penetrate the heart of humanity. Music was born of man's need to give feeling an ideal expression. From time immemorial humanity has poured out its joys and sorrows in song.

From earliest records music has been used in worship. When the Israelites crossed the Red Sea they immediately proclaimed their triumph in a song of praise to God. The Old Testament is filled with allusions to music which imply a higher degree of knowledge and proficiency in the art to the Jews than can be ascribed to any other people in the ancient world. The Singing School established at Jerusalem by David is the largest in recorded history. The musicians and singers furnished a prominent part of the ministry of the temple. In the New Testament Paul advises the use of psalms, hymns, and spiritual songs.

How vastly different is the God-given song! There is the difference between an African war chant and Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus." At Trevecca we endeavor to develop in our students an appreciation for the best in music, and especially in religious music—music for God's glory!

The Girls' Chorus presents programs throughout the year.

Mixed Quartet.

THE POWER OF ASSOCIATION

Try to visualize a college where each student goes about completely engrossed in his own classes, studies, and doing nothing but his scholastic work. The word "visualize" is used because it would be impossible to find a school like that. In considering such a situation, do you think that he could remain satisfied in this same grind day after day? How many students would a college like this have? And how long would those students remain there?

Now, in reality, imagine a school where every student is interested in his fellow classmates and is constantly working to help him. Here you will find young men and women, boys and girls, busily attending the responsibilities of various organizations. There are groups of students standing or sitting on a beautiful lawn, laughing and talking about subjects that are uplifting. If you were to go through a building, you would perhaps find an instructor or leader of the school giving advice and help to one of the students who has some problem to solve. Perhaps you would hear a murmur of voices, and if you were to go into one of the rooms in a dormitory, you would find a group of boys humbly kneeling and earnestly lifting their prayers up to God.

It would not be hard to readily see the difference between these two institutions. The latter school mentioned is our own college, Trevecca. It is made this way because of friendship and fellowship, not only with men but with God.

We realize and accept the old adage that "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." In order for Jack's life to be interesting, he must participate in the activities of the dormitory, school sports, and campus affairs. Only by doing these things can he expect to reap the benefits of college life in full. The student as well as anyone else, must first prove himself friendly before he can expect to win friends. Also, in our school we paraphrase thus: "All play and no work makes Jack a dull boy, and Trevecca College has no place for a 'dull Jack.'"

Friends are found at college that prove lasting and invaluable. Through fellowship, friendship, and proper association, the life of a Trevecca student tends to build character—both Christian and moral. It aids him in gaining self-confidence, establishes in him a liking for Christian companionship, and gives him the opportunity to meet many of the problems in human relationship that he must face out in the world.

The tower of the McClurkan Memorial Building is symbolical of the spirit of Trevecca— aspiring, upward looking, ever Godward directing.

FACULTY AND ADMINISTRATION

It is hard to evaluate the benefits which we derive from sitting under such spirit-filled men and women as compose our faculty. They have been well-educated in some of the best colleges and universities of the land and they have supplemented that with years of experience in teaching as well as along other lines. We students have found each professor to be unselfishly devoted to the task of instructing Christian young people, to the advancement of Trevecca College, and to the promotion of God's kingdom.

The College Sophomore Class, which has been very active this year, began the publishing of a weekly student paper called TREV-ECHOES. This paper was mimeographed at first, but soon it grew large enough to be printed. Everyone agrees that this weekly publication has become an integral part of our school life. Students and faculty members, as well as friends of Trevecca, eagerly look forward to reading TREV-ECHOES each week.

The young people who belong to this organization are those who actively participate in the Christian work activities of the school. Each quarter captains and assistants are elected to have charge of services at the county jail, the hospital, the city workhouse, the county workhouse, and the street meetings. These leaders take musicians and speakers with them to contribute to the interest of the services. Every week-end there are hundreds of souls reached in the city and in surrounding communities by the enthusiastic workers of this organization. It is a fundamental part of our school program, and we are thankful for the work they are doing.

The Trevecca Ministerial Association is an organization of all students who have a definite call to some phase of the ministry. These students are already serving, or plan to serve in the future, as pastors, evangelists, teachers, song evangelists, missionaries, or children's workers.

Since the major emphasis of Trevecca is placed upon religious work, members of the Ministerial Association take great joy in making a very large contribution toward that end.

The purpose of the association is to help deepen the spiritual tone of the school, cultivate greater interest in the Ministerial Department, aid individual growth in grace, encourage Christian service, and increase ministerial efficiency to the highest degree possible. This is done by affording opportunity for giving personal ministerial services and for listening to lectures and messages of outstanding leaders in the Church of the Nazarene.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT

From informal singspirations around the campfire to the presentation of our Easter cantata, "Olivet to Calvary," Trevecca students have enjoyed many happy hours singing the praises of God during this school year.

The department under the leadership of Mrs. Ruth Harris Bennett has been represented in many Nazarene churches of Nashville through the mixed chorus, girls' chorus, quartets, trios, duets, and solos, both vocal and instrumental.

We appreciate Professor Hammond's and Miss Paschall's contributions of good music in the chapel services and their assistance with other music organizations. Miss Doggett has given invaluable assistance along these lines, also.

Many students have assisted in evangelistic meetings from which they have received helpful training, and have been a great blessing to many people. Our mixed chorus, girls' chorus, girls' glee club, quartets, trios, duets, and soloists have made our school well known throughout the Nashville area. Because of the traveling restrictions only a few groups have been able to go to distant churches.

Prof. Walter Ihrke, pianist, and Prof. Ponder, violinist, from George Peabody College, gave us an excellent concert in January. Miss Johnnie Jernigan and Mrs. Margaret Ramsey presented a string ensemble in April. In May we had the pleasure of having a two-piano recital by Miss Esther Saxon and her teacher, Mrs. Matthews, from Springfield. These programs as well as others of popular interest have served to make this year an outstanding one along music lines. The year was climaxed with a series of well-arranged programs during Music Week in May.

STUDENT ADVISORY COUNCIL

This year was memorable in its being the first time we have had a Student Advisory Council at Trevecca. Last fall the Faculty Executive Council nominated a number of young people out of whom the student body elected the following: College Senior, Nona Edwards; College Junior, Evelyn Ramsey; College Sophomore, Margaret Doggett; College Freshman, Willard Brown; High School, Voncille Hawkins and English Redford; Ministerial, M. E. Perkins.

DR. A. K. BRACKEN
Faculty Advisor

This group meets once a week and has contributed much toward making this year a pleasant one to remember. The Council has worked on the Faculty Program Committee in arranging interesting programs on Friday nights and at other times. It has sponsored such projects as class organization, student elections, campus improvements, N.Y.P.S. convention hosts and nearly all other student activities. But possibly the most important contribution of the Student Advisory Council has been that of creating a better understanding between the faculty and the students. We feel that the Council has done a good work this year, and we hope that it will be continued in years to come.

Margaret Doggett was elected president, Nona Edwards as vice-president, and Evelyn Ramsey as secretary. Dr. A. K. Bracken was unanimously asked to be the faculty advisor.

DORIS FORBES is the lady who has ministered to us as nurse for four years and is President of the Virginia Club this year. Her sympathetic, faithful service has won for her a special place in the hearts of all the students. It is doubtful whether any other young person on the campus is respected as much, loved as deeply, and appreciated as fully as Doris. She is so staunch in character and so gentle in nature that she is a true example of the One she serves.

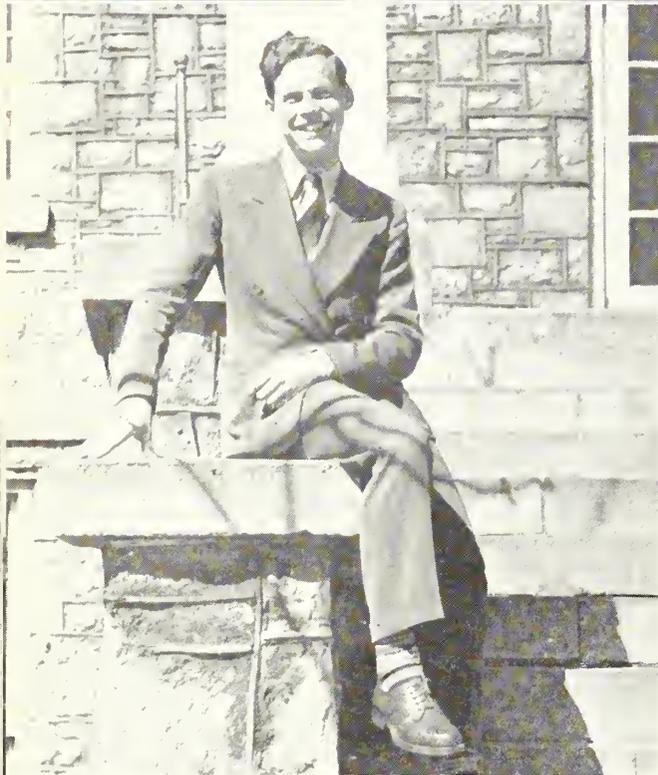

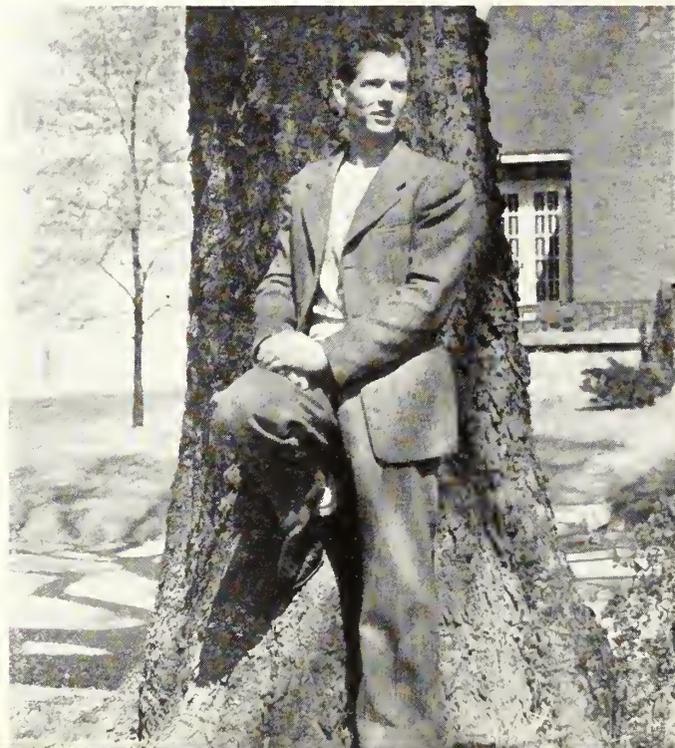

WILLARD BROWN, a popular young man, has made a distinctive place for himself during the three years he has been here. When he was graduated from high school last year he was honored as valedictorian. This year he has served well as President of the Freshman Class, Assistant Business Manager on the DARDA staff, and a member of the Student Council. Behind that inimitable smile one finds an alert mind, a kind heart, and consistent Christian principles.

JOE SONGER is the type of person whom to know is to appreciate. Now President of the West Virginia Club, he has been at Trevecca long enough to gain a reputation as "one of our best." His ambitions lie in the field of medicine, and we are confident that his enthusiasm and determination will eventually bring him to the realization of his aspirations. Classmates find him a congenial friend, teachers find him a respectful student, and surely the Lord finds him a worthy servant.

LEADERS

ROBERT GRAY is a well-balanced combination of many admirable traits. His merit as a leader is proved by his being a successful President of the Christian Workers' Association for an entire year. He fascinates us with his spontaneous wit, his compelling executive skill, and his forceful individuality. We readily hail him as one of our most promising young ministers. It is our belief that he will continue to do estimable work for his Master even after he leaves Trevecca.

VONCILLE HAWKINS is full of the grace, beauty, and charm that characterizes a real lady. She never stoops to criticize; therefore she is not the object of criticism. In the High School Senior Class and on the Student Advisory Council, Voncille has contributed much to Trevecca by her unselfish work, her level-headed suggestions, and her unswerving loyalty to the school. She wields a decisive influence based on a faultless Christian life.

MILTON TURNEY, attending Trevecca this year for the first time, has already been established as one of our favorite student preachers. He has acted commendably as Vice-President of the Ministerial Association, President of the Mississippi Club, and Sales Manager for the DARDA. His opinions are recognized to be worthy because they show an exceptional maturity of judgment. He has an intriguing personality, but we like him most because of his sincere humility which balances his fearless aggressiveness in the service of God.

I know of a church at the edge of the town
Where heaven and earth seem to blend;
For within the wide door waits the Christ we adore
With a blessing for all who attend.

They come to the church at the edge of the town
And join with the worshiping throng,
And tomorrow you'll face with a confident grace
And a faith that is steadfast and strong.
